Coming TOGETHER

RIDE 'EM, COWBOY! Senior Charlie Dalton shows off his riding skills at the Homecoming pep rally in September. Charlie was one of the most spirited students at North Henderson, and could be found throughout the year spreading his spirit to the entire student body and faculty. This was an effort that greatly helped North COMETOGETHER in 1996!

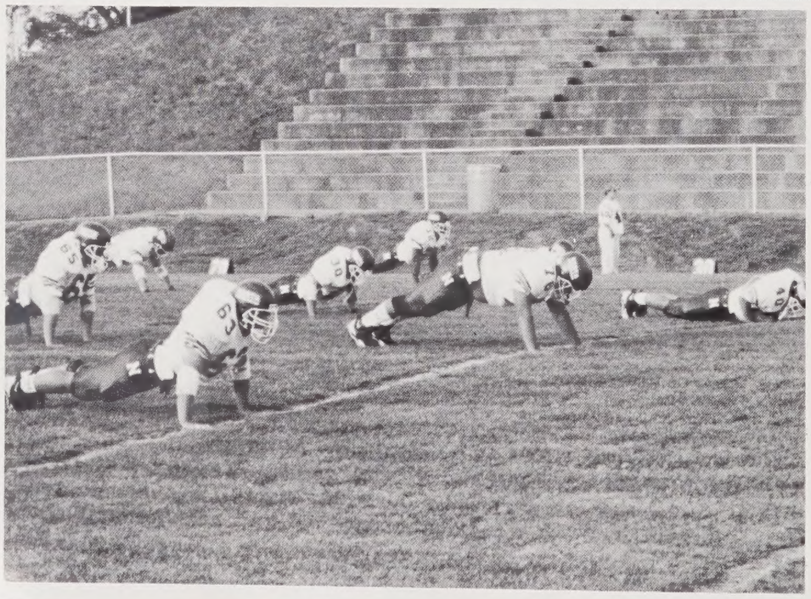
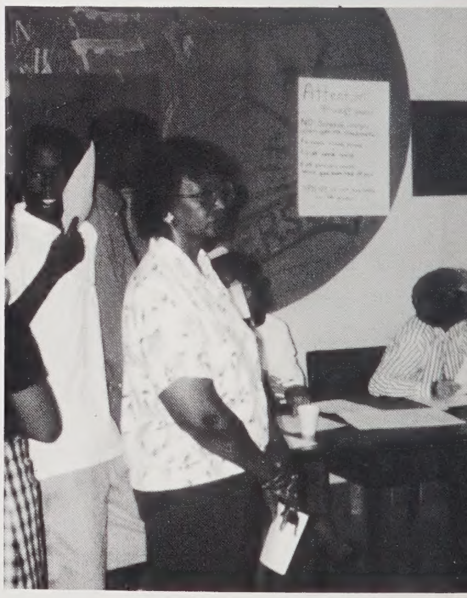
Coaching at its best ... during a J.V. Volleyball game, Coach Williams offers advice and constructive criticism to his players. The J.V. Lady Knights Volleyball team consisted of all freshmen. These girls worked hard together and looked to the varsity team for guidance and experience.

What dedication! Seniors Charlie Dalton, Aaron Lanning and sophomore Jeremiah Rhodes struggle to put together the four concrete picnic tables which the senior class purchased for the courtyard. A large group of guys spent a good part of one morning getting the tables situated.

Down! Down! Down! And back up again. So went a typical Knights football game warm-up. Warming up for games was very important. It not only loosened the players up but it got them excited about the game.

What's taking so long?! Parents and students wait patiently to get schedule changes. Schedule changes were tackled before school so students would not miss class the first week while getting them changed.





Coming Out Of THE DARK

The time had come - three months of relaxation, vacationing, and lazy days in the sun were ending as students, teachers, and staff returned to the hallowed school halls for another exciting year.

Not everyone had a summer like the one previously mentioned. Many students and members of the faculty worked their summer away in various positions, from fast food restaurants to construction and factory jobs.

The much talked about course registrations, fall sports practices, student council and yearbook meetings, and other annual back-to-school events became realities in mid-August, and these students had to come back to school before it was even formally "in session." Eager students and staff found themselves facing a fabulous new school year whereby coming together they could maximize their potential as individuals and as a school.

- Katie Bones

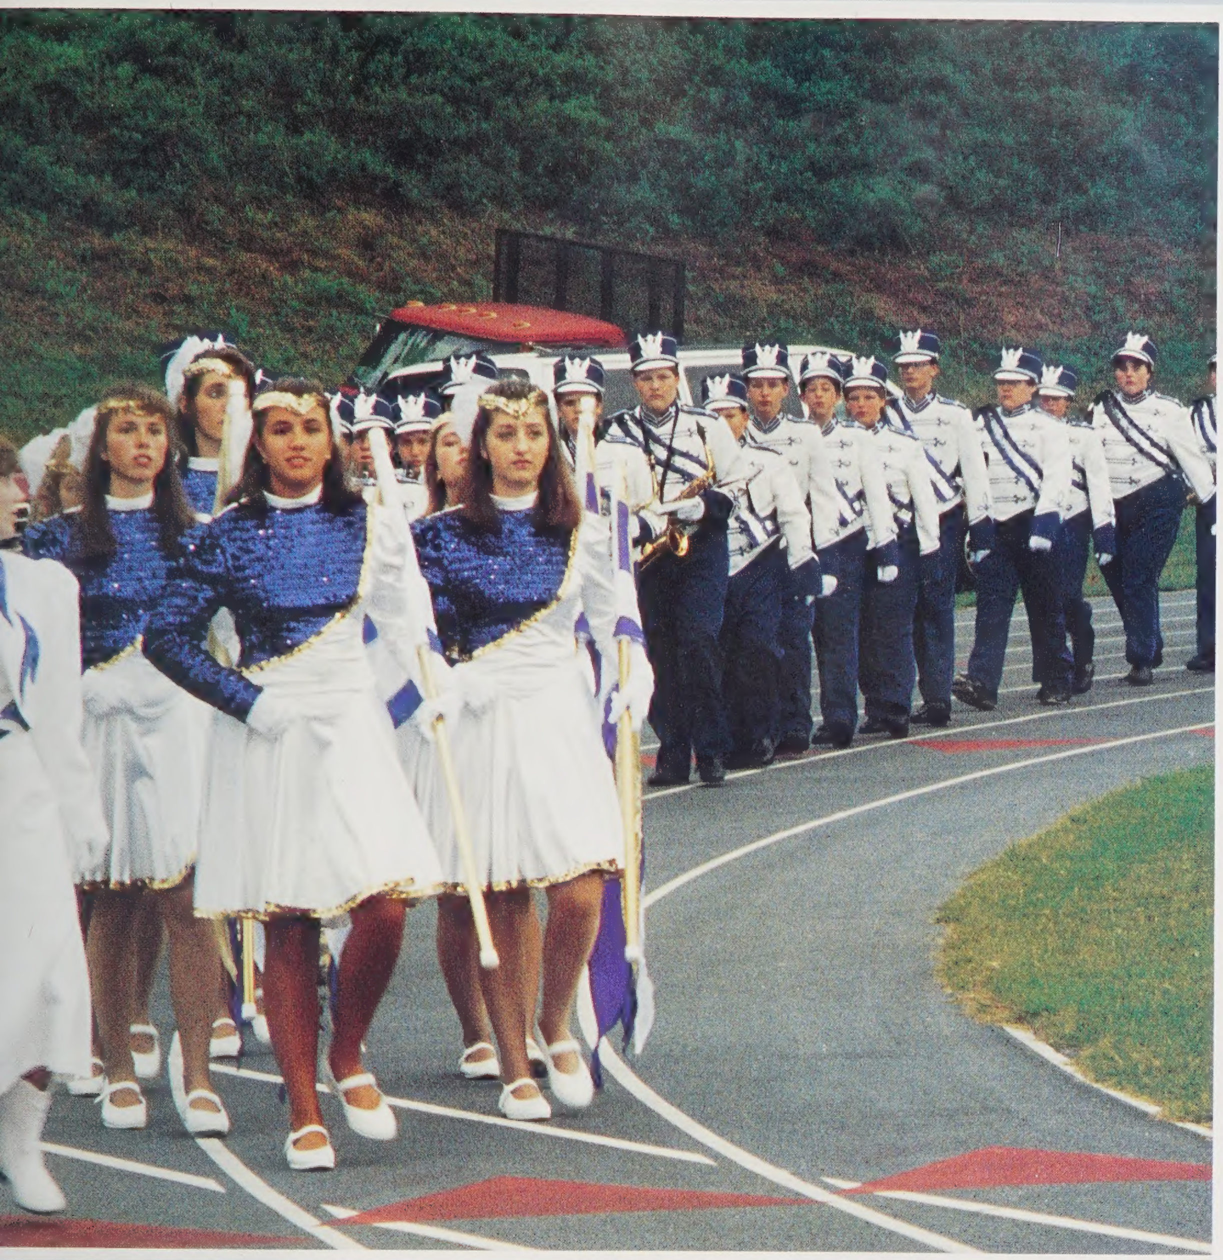
Coming Out Of THE DARK

Out with the old and in with the new . . . school year, that is. With the event of a new school year, there were new challenges for both students and faculty to face. Teachers once again looked for "current" and interesting ways to make learning more exciting and students tried their best to be awake on early Monday mornings for these activities.

It was obvious from the onset that 1996 was going to be different from previous years. There were times to give, times to share, times to work, and times to play. Whatever the event was, we were making memories to last a lifetime.

"To be or not to be . . . that is the question,'' states Hamlet in his self-titled play by Shakespeare, which was read by Mrs. Osterman's A.P. English students. Whether North was "to be or not to be'' was not the question. We were definitely "to be''--- united together for all time.

- Katie Bones



And the band played on, and on, and on . . . Ready and waiting, the Marching Knights prepare for another home football game under the leadership of Drum Major Elise Sharpton. The Marching Knights loyally attended every football game, home and away, with the players and the cheerleaders. In addition, they were common sights at local parades and festivals. With polyester uniforms, the members of the Marching Band and Flag Corp sweat in the heat, froze in the cold, and itched their way through all weather.

WILDERNESS

These J.V. cheerleaders give the phrase "WE CHEER UP THE DARKEST KNIGHTS" a whole new meaning. Even into the dusk and cold of a weekday evening, the J.V. cheerleaders were present and pumped to support the J.V. football team.

Wild Cherry Pepsi, anyone? This must be the drink of choice for National Art Honor Society members. At their first meeting of the school year, President Steven Park went over necessary business. NAHS held an evening induction ceremony early in November for their new members.

Getting ALONG

With a variety of school and community extracurricular activities to choose from, students could be found during the week and on the weekends making plans to fill up their spare time. The ability to balance homework, sports, and jobs with social activities and other areas of student involvement proved to be a juggling act for some students.

Spirit Week and Homecoming, as usual, were filled with fun activities. The entire school found ways to take part in the week, by either preparing hall decorations, dressing up, or showing off their spirit at pep rallies and the powder puff and varsity football games. But the year didn't end there . . . student life raged on with enthusiasm during the entire school year.

MAJESTIC EVENING

"LIFE'S A DANCE..." sang one young music superstar. But for many people dancing is life. The Junior/Senior prom was not just an ordinary dance. The prom gave seniors a chance to gather one last time as a whole before graduation, while the Juniors took yet another step on the road to adulthood.

On May 5, 1995 students and faculty gathered at the Cornerhouse in Asheville to laugh, talk, sing, and dance with one another.

"I thought the architectural design of the Cornerhouse added a lot to the prom this year. The size of the building was perfect, and there were very few complaints," commented Mrs. West, one of the chaperones.

Overall, most attendants seemed pleased with the prom, and the Juniors were anxious to return the next year.

The prom also provided a dose of reality for the school as a whole with the nationwide Prom Promise. The Prom Promise stressed the importance of sobriety. Thousands of high school students across the nation signed the Prom Promise, pledging not to partake in alcohol or drugs on their prom night.

-by Jarrett Whiteside

HOLD ON TIGHT Cristy Wilkie and Eddie Youngblood dance the night away in each others arms. "The memories I shared at my junior prom will always hold a special place in my mind and heart," said Cristy.

ROYALTY ON HAND...Kevin Smith and Natara Beddingfield pause for a moment of recognition after being crowned king and queen.

THE KING AND HIS COURT...The King, Kevin Smith, were the center of attention as he and his queen, Natara Beddingfield, shared a dance.

YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO...Greg Justice is read his rights after being arrested as Spring Dungan watches in sorrow in a skit performed for Prom Promise.

FOLLOW THE LEADER...Congo lines were very popular forms of dancing at the prom, and something in which everyone could participate.

UP, UP, AND AWAY! It was an emotional moment when the seniors released their ballons after graduation. This signified their [illegible] "real world" and was a final display of classmates coming together.

WHERE DID I PUT MY SPEECH? Mark Meliski, 1995 Valedictorain, was the first speaker at the graduation ceremony. Mark had to work hard to get to the top, but all his hard work had paid off at this moment.

ALMOST THERE. The senior class waits impatiently to hear their names called to get their long awaited diplomas. On June 3, 1995 in the North Henderson gym, the seniors officially finished their high school careers

STRIKE A POSE! Good friends Natara Beddingfield, Kevin Smith, Rachel Lyda, Damon McMinn, and Heather King gather for one last goodbye. Before graduation the seniors reminisced about all the good times they have shared.

WE'RE
OUTTA HERE

THE MOST ANTICIPATED EVENT of the year was graduation (for the seniors at least!). The whole year was spent preparing for the last day of school when all of your classmates were together for the last time.

"It's great knowing it's your last year," said Tommy Guinn.

It all started with senior pictures during the summer, buying invitations, senior keys and tassels. Later on in the year came cap and gowns.

Registering for college was an important time for Seniors who had to choose to go to a four year university, a techincal or community college, or go straight to work. There were 115 graduates in the 1994-95 year. Out of the senior class 80% went to some type of college, 13% went straight to work, and only 7% went into the military.

Senior year meant the end of some things: not having to get up at the crack of dawn to take a shower, fix your hair and try to get to class on time. No more pushing your way through the crowded hall to make it to your locker. Graduation also meant the begining of other things: the first year of college, the begining of your life as an adult. Graduation was an exciting event but it was also scary in some aspects.

"I'm glad to be out. I miss my friends but it's time to move on," said Zane Taylor.

-by Wendy Ledbetter

THE 1995 JUNIOR MARSHALLS were a great help to make the graduation run "heavenly." They included Niel Slaughter, Melissa Yeargin, Elise Sharpton, Alice Nuckles, Tad Venn, Branton Burleson, Josh Turner, Resa Barnwell, Roger McMurray, Katherine White, Steven Park, Katie Bones, Kevin Eckhardt, and Cara McCrain.

RAH-RAH [illegible] KICK [illegible] THE KNEE Damon [illegible] shows his true cheerleading abilities and school spirit on the side lines of the powderpuff game. You know, Damon, the Dallas Cowboys are looking for a new cheerleader!

[illegible]DING PEACE SCHOOL [illegible] Mr. Gore and Tonya [illegible]pper have a very creative mind when it comes to their wardrobe. They are modeling their snazzy get-up from 70's dress-up day.

GLORIOUS VICTORIES

. . . IN SPIRIT AND TOGETHERNESS. What a week of excitement! Spirit week was a time for everyone to get involved, and get a little crazy. Spirit week was for the entire student body whether you were on an athletic team, a band member, or just a supportive face in the crowd.

We were only allowed three dress up days this year, but don't think that dampened anyone's spirits. Dressing up was a time for the students and faculty to explore and express their wild sides while pushing the limits of fashion "do's" and "do not's."

1995 Spirit week was headed off with 70's day - an event to show off the "grooviest" acessories in your wardrobe. The second day was "cowboys and indians." It is always fun to pretend that you are Clint Eastwood or Pocahontas for a day! Last there was Disney day, which ended spirit week on a "magical" note.

Other events such as the purchase of spirit links, the Powder Puff football game and the crowning of the Powder Puff queen, "Falene Walker" (a.k.a. Jim Gabbard), brought out class rivalries to prove who had the most spirit at North Henderson High School. In addition, teachers and students had a bit competition at the student-faculty volleyball game.

Spirit week was a time to have fun and get pumped up for the Homecoming game. It showed how all pieces of the North Henderson puzzle could come together to support their school.

- by Kallie Prohn

WATCH OUT FOR SMEARING MASCARA, FaleneWalker!" Jim Gabbard got a just a little emotional when he was crowned Powder Puff Homecoming Queen at half-time during the Powder Puff football game. Jim could be seen during Spirit Week collecting spare change in a gallon bucket.

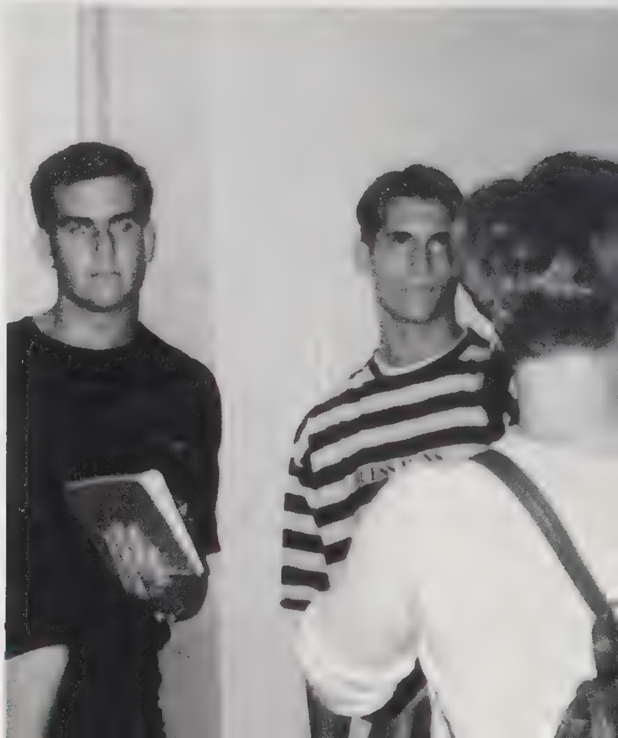
LOOKING KIND OF CHOKED UP...Roger McMurray is hung by Katherine White's masculine biceps. Her strength helped lead the Seniors and Sophomores to win the Powder Puff Football game.

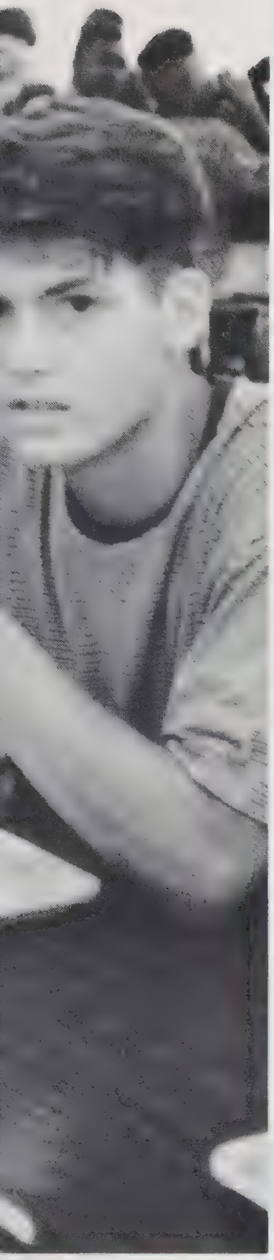
LAID BACK... Chris Burrell calmly and slowly makes his way to class. With ten minutes between classes you can take your time.

THANK GOODNESS! We made it to lunch. Lunch is always a great time to fill up your stomach while catching up with friends on the first day of school.

STICKY FINGERS... Senior Molly Oates works diligently putting up posters to welcome students back. The Student Council was in charge of welcoming students back to school.

DAZED AND CONFUSED...Students filter down the hall to first period. Some were excited, some were still sleepy, and some were just lost.





SCHOOL TIME

THE FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL was either an exciting time or a depressing time, depending on the way you looked at it. If you are an optimist you might look forward to seeing your friends, new faces, new classes, new teachers, sports, and clubs. The pessimistic side of coming back to school is waking up early, hard classes, homework, mean teachers, ridng a bus if you do not drive, and the ultimate heartbreak that summer is over. A lot of preparation went into the first day of school. The teachers had to prepare for their classes and new students. The office had to print schedules and deal with schedule changes. Senior and underclassmen pictures had to be made. The Student Council had to pass out schedules and decorate the school for the first day. Even students had to prepare for the first day of class. There are new clothes, school supplies, lockers, and parking stickers to be bought. Another good thing about the first day of school was seeing new people. However you look at the first day of school, it is always an interesting experience.

-by Jamie Harris

GOOD MORNING . . . Sophomores Heidi Cameron and Cassie Jones are excited about the first day. They were ready to share their enthusiasm with the rest of the school.

HOMECOMING

THE SPIRIT WAS HIGHER THAN EVER and the stadium stands were packed with fans and returning alumni: it was time for homecoming.

Friday night, September 29,1995, was the perfect ending to spirit week with the football team playing well against Brevard and the crowning of the Homecoming Queen. The decision for Queen was a difficult one: on the Queen's Court were four senior girls who all had winning qualities. In the end, LaShay Coates took the crown as the 1995 North Henderson Homecoming Queen.

- by Wesley Corn

COMING OUT WITH A BLAST is the varsity football team! Lead by #11, James Albritton, the Knights headed to the field. The Knights made a good standing against visiting Brevard, with a final score of 13-28.

KING KURT ..." Replacing [illegible] as the new Homecoming King was senior Kurt [illegible] who happily took reign over the Knights.

WHAT A PLAY! Dallas Barnwell and Crystal Owenby watch the first football game of the season with amazement. Many students came out to show their support during the home football games.

TEEN SPIRIT

WHETHER YOU PARTICIPATED in dressing up, led the crowd in cheers, or screamed your lungs off in the pep rally, we all came together to show our spirit. The year was started off with a bang at the first pep rally, where the crowd came together and formed the wave, the seniors won the class relay "Don't Sqeeze the Charmin," and the cheerleaders got the crowd on their feet bursting with spirit.

Even though we have school spirit as a whole, each individual class has their own type of spirit. Senior Becky Warrensaid, "I think underclassman are nothing because we are all that." That may be the consensus of the seniors, but senior Robbie Allisonsaid "I don't think there is much of a rivalry, but seniors rule!" The juniors, however, have a different attitude. Junior Theo Reidsaid, "We have all of the looks, atheletes, and brains, so we are nothing to mess with." Freshman Mandy Lewiscommented, "Being a freshmen is not bad because when the time comes [for us to be upperclassmen], we will feel the same way." Sophomore Merritt Pryor said, "I enjoy being a sophomore because we are not carrying the freshmen label."

Even though each class had that little fighting spirit within, we come together to cheer on our school as a whole, without the boundaries of class lines.

- by Molly Oates

JUMP SHAKE YOUR BOOTY! During the football games, students showed off their spirit while cheering along with the cheerleaders. Catherine Meddand Tosha Williams were among the most spirited students during football games.

BECOMING FRIENDS

The role of a friend is carried out to many different degrees. Virtually everyone is affected by them in one way or another, whether it be saving them a seat at lunch or helping them with their homework. What would we do without them?

Friendships are relationships that are held in very high esteem. Most students treat their friends as members of their family, and in a way they are. For foreign exchange students, their situation is very similar to someone transferring schools, but to a larger extent. They must make new friends instantly, and often times in an unknown language. This year three students experienced this move: Jodi Benson, Julie Roy, and Paolo Nicolini.

The concept is universal. Survival without friends is impossible, no matter who you are. Friends are important to have, but being a friend is equally important.

- by Jarrett Whiteside

CHEERS! Tim Thomas, Kenny Rogers, and Beth Jackson have a drink at a football scrimmage against RS Central. Football games were a popular time for friends to get together.

WHAT'S UP? Students show their friendliness at a pep rally. Pep rallies gave students an opportunity to take a break from their work, be with friends, and show their school spirit.

LIVIN' IN THE '90s

THINGS WE CAN'T LIVE WITHOUT, or so we think . . . Where would we be without out cars, car phones, beepers, friends, and fast food restaurants? In today's society we are "spoiled" by many luxuries. For some of us, our biggest worry consists of wondering what we are going to do for a day while our car is in the shop.

Could you imagine having real worries such as finding a place to lay your head at night or not knowing when your next meal would be? Touching a little closer home, think about all the stories we've heard time after time concerning how easy our lives are these days. How many times have we heard "When I was your age I had to walk ten miles to school, in the snow, uphill both ways?!" Most of our parents (and probably none of our grandparents) did not have the chance to jump in their car, turn on the A/C, and bass it up all the way to school.

Who would even think about missing an important or not-so-important phone call? We don't have that problem anymore, thanks to beepers and car phones.

Do we ever have time to wait on a home cooked meal? Today teenagers hardly have time to go home, much less sit down for a meal. Thank goodness for fast food restaurant! They have become commonplace for friends to sit together and catch up on their busy lives, while trying to grab a quick meal before rushing off to their next destination.

Without all of the luxuries we depend on daily, Livin' In the '90s would definitely be more difficult and very hard to adjust to.

- by Tara Morgan

JUST CHILLIN'! T.J. Baldwin and Tony Lindsey pose by their cars. This year cars proved to be something that we couldn't live without.

HANG OUTS

WHERE TO GO AND WHAT TO DO are often the main questions of teenagers today. Even though Hendersonville did not offer many places for teenagers to "hang-out," there was always someplace to go. Whether it was Applebee's on a Friday night after the football game or Mr. Pete's after school, you could always find a crowd of people at these local hang-outs.

Despite the fact that we were at school all day long, we somehow managed to find our own little hang-outs at school also. The seniors claimed the courtyard early on and named it as "their" property. The school parking lot was rarely left empty, and the Commons Area was deemed "the" place to gather before school and during lunch.

Students found a variety of other places to spend their free time as well, including the Blue Ridge Mall, Wal-Mart, and the fast food restaurants along Four Season's Boulevard.

PILE IN, BOYS! These guys are displaying their usual behavior while piling into their car after school in the parking lot. This was not unusual behavior for these guys.

WE'RE BAD! Seniors Josh Poore, Cindy Odom, and Charlie Dalton exercise their right to the senior courtyard during lunch. Seniors enjoyed this and many other privileges.

IT'S ALL GOOD, BABY! Bambi DeFebbo gives LaShay Coates advice on what to order at the popular hang-out, Applebee's. This was a popular hang-out on Friday nights.

WHAT'S FOR LUNCH? Seniors Kevin Eckhardt, Scott Pittillo, and Jonathon Thomas sit at the new tables purchased by the Senior class. This purchase made the courtyard a more convenient place for seniors to eat lunch.

FURRY COMPANIONS

IT'S ALWAYS GREAT TO COME HOME from a stressful day of school and find your faithful pet waiting at the door. The wonderful thing about animals is even if you forget to feed them or don't quite have enough time to give them attention in the morning, they are always there for you. Your pet will never let you down.

There are a variety of pets you can own today. For instance, there are domestic pets such as dogs, cats, birds, and fish. Exotic pets range from monkeys to iguanas. The most interesting type of pets, however, are in the unusual category, which includes ferrets, hedgehogs, and chinchillas.

"I got a goat for my birthday. It wasn't quite what I expected, but I love her anyway," said sophomore Brittiany Allen.

Many students at North got their pets as a gift, such as for Christmas, a birthday or as a sentimental surprise.

"Tyson is special to me because he was given to me as a puppy for Christmas by my boyfriend, Brent," said Holly Horne.

No matter what kind of animal you own they all have their own unique personality. Many people think animals don't understand people, but loving pet owners disagree.

Come Out and PLAY

As the school year began, students, staff, cheerleaders, and athletes came together to start fall sports off with a bang - at the first pep rally.

All managers, trainers, and players for fall sports were introduced, and the cheerleaders led the school in cheers to "pump up the volume." Students picked from each class had the opportunity to be contestants in "Don't Squeeze the Charmin," a relay race that pitted the freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors against one another in a spirited race.

In the sports events to follow, fans lined the fields and filled the bleachers as well as the stadium seats to cheer the athletes on to victory and support their peers.

Unfortunately, the glamour of the victories was not without an unglamourous side. Athletes in all sports devoted a great deal of time to pre-season practices and training sessions. This prepared the students to come together as one team.

Track Members Show Their Devotion

By Wesley Corn

The question "why?" is what runs through most students minds as they see the devoted track members going off to practice.

What is so attractive about that big asphalt circle? Some come for the competition, some come for the challenge, but most come for the fun.

Believe it or not, for those who participate, track is a lot of hard work but also a lot of fun. Your hard work is always rewarded in the end. The boys' track team was second in the region and sent many members to the state meet.

The track team had a lot of success in 95 and have high hopes for years to come.

READY AND WAITING

Racing Towards Higher Goals

By Kallie Prohn

Every year has been a building block for the girl's track team. The 1995 team grew together and made major improvements which have allowed them to reach amazing new heights.

Though the competition was fierce, North's girls pulled through with dedication, long practices, high goals, and the desire to win.

Track is a very personal, self-disciplined sport. Coach Pierce helped each member to run their best by telling them to strive for their own individual records. The team did just that, and many new records were made.

The Lady Knights runners came up top in first place at the WCU relay invitational meet, made their way to Division II regional Champions, and Joni Gosda, Kallie Prohn, Kristy Trivette, Ginny Long, Laura McCrain, April Lancaster, and Melanie Lyda went to UNC Chapel Hill to participate in the State track meet.

The season ended with great performances from every team member. Together they set the standards and formed a tradition for up-comming runners.

Her face says it all... Jennifer Smith waits for her race to begin. Her strength and team leadership kept everyone motivated at the meets.

"Little Wonder" Joni Gosda, also known as "Speedy," trys to keep her legs warm at the Hendersonville track meet. At that meet, Joni came out on top in the 800, 1600, and 3200-meter runs and 3200-meter relay.

It's a bird, it's a plane . . . it's BROOKE! Brooke Losey soars into the sand towards her mark at a home meet. Brooke's talent as a long jumper was a major asset to the team.

TENNIS AND GOLF

Bad Weather Won't Keep Players Away

By Tad Venn

The games of tennis and golf are two of the few sports that require its players to base their strategies around Mother Nature's decisions. Whether it be a driving wind or a scorching sun, the North Henderson tennis and golf teams played through it all.

Despite setbacks due to the weather, the tennis team finished third in conference play with a 5-5 record and a 5-10 overall record.

"Making the playoffs was a pre-season goal for the team. Through leadership and hard work, we were able to achieve this goal," Coach Lisa Anderson said.

Leading the way for the Knights was Tad Venn, who was voted by the team as its Most Valuable Player and also earned All-Conference honors. Zach Taylor was voted as the team's Most Improved Player.

In addition to the weather, the North golf team also experienced a setback in the number of players they had.

Coach Skip Taylor said, "They tried really hard but there was not an abundance of talent."

The golf team finished the season with a 1-24 record.

Wham! Josh Turner returns a powerful backhand crosscourt to his opponent. Josh proved to be an important asset to the team during his first season.

With an optimistic outlook on their season, the girls softball team was ready to make the best of '95. And they did.

Seniors Natara Beddingfield, Heather King, Rachel Lyda, and Tina Spivey had a lot of experience and they helped the rest of the team to come together. Working together allowed the team to be successful in their second sesason.

Junior Bambi DeFebbo said, "The 1994-95 softball season was extraordinary. We went from worst to first! Our Seniors were our key players. The excitement of being conference champions was great."

The success of the 1995 softball season left the players with high expectations for the future.

"I'm very excited about next season when we play fast pitch. It will be a learning experience for everyone. Gary McDonald and Melanie Winters are great coaches," said Bambi.

BRINGIN' IT HOME

JV and Varsity Baseball "Hang Tough"

By Shaun Plount

Our second baseball season was much like the first. There was a lot of effort by everyone on the junior varsity and varsity baseball teams throughout the season.

The high point of the season was having our baseball field finished in time for season play.

Varsity had a tough year, finishing the season with a record of 1-16. Their only win was a rout of 15-2 over Mountain Heritage.

Eric Camp said, "We put a lot of time and effort into the baseball season, but we just didn't have a great year."

JV also had a hard season, winning 3 of 14 games. Their wins included a 16-12 and a 19-8 victory over Rosman, and a 9-7 win over Polk.

"I wish we could have played as well at the beginning of the season as we did at the end," said Darrell Redden.

Although neither the varsity nor junior varsity baseball teams had a particularly winning season, both put a lot of hard work and effort into their attempts.

Gettin' dirty... Randy Wallen comes home hard in the game against Smoky Mountain. Randy was the junior varsity powerhitter.

In the dirt... Billy Lewis slides into third in the home game against T.C. Roberson. Billy was a key part of varsity baseball's defense as third baseman and pitcher.

KICKING IT

Through a Black and White Season

By Kallie Prohn & Shaun Plount

The soccer season involved a lot of change, adjustment, and growth. In losing most of their starting players to graduation last year, this season started slow for the remaining soccer players. It took time to find rookie talent and where it belonged on the field.

Another hurdle to overcome was the expectations and habits of a new coach. Though the season was not what was expected, there came some high points through disappointments, including a win over Hendersonville and the defeat of Polk, both in conference games.

The season ended with confrontations with many new challenges, making new adaptations, and growth among team members. They were able to overcome a rough year through the building of experience.

Brad Gross said, "Even though we didn't have the best season, we all came together, worked hard as a team, and had a great time. We all look forward to next year."

Coming out of the box . . . Tommy Williams, goalkeeper for the Knights as well as junior captain, takes control of the situation and brings the ball upfield in a game against Mountain Heritage.

A lasting impression... Daniel Sullins and Stu Stepp were the team's only seniors this year. They showed a lot of leadership on the field as well as off. Their strength and speed as a fullbacks prevented many shots on goal.

Stealing the spotlight . . . Domingo Tomas, playing midfield, takes the ball away from an opponent in a game against Polk. Domingo was an important new addition to the team.

Wrapping it up . . . Kallie Prohn, a third year player, takes time to wrap her foot before a game. Kallie used her skills at halfback to help the team in many sticky situations.

SETTING HIGH STANDARDS

Lady Knights Establish Tradition

By Tad Venn

Success found a home this year in the North Henderson volleyball team, but it took determination and hard work to achieve it. During the school's three years of existence, Coach Sue Moon has led her teams to a 70-9 record, two conference titles, and a reputation as one of the best volleyball teams in the state.

The team began the season playing at the Best of the Best Tournament at Davidson College, and was the only conference school invited. There they placed third out of twenty-five teams. The Lady Knights were also invited to the Watauga Tournament, where they again made a strong showing.

The Lady Knights rolled through conference play with their only losses coming to arch-rival West Henderson. However, North sought revenge on the undefeated Lady Falcons in the 2-A state playoffs, and defeated them three sets to one. The emotional win put the Lady Knights into the semifinals, and one game away from a trip to Chapel Hill and competition for the state title. After defeating three number one seeds in the playoffs, North played their fourth and final top seed in undefeated Forbush. After playing for two and a half hours, the Lady Knights lost a close, hard-fought match, three sets to two.

The North volleyball team, however, proved throughout the regular season and playoffs that they were the best team in the area. No other high school in Western North Carolina advanced further into the playoffs than the Lady Knights - a true sign of success.

On her toes. Kristi Garren, a sophomore, meets the volleyball in mid-air while attempting a pass. Kristi successfully provided the team with many game-high kills and blocks.

Hang time! Sophomore Jenny Stepp kills the ball during a home playoff match. As a powerful middle hitter and blocker, Jenny made opposing coaches rework their game plays.

WORKING TOGETHER

for a Victorious Season

By Kallie Prohn

The volleyball team, consisting of all freshman, had an amazing season. They went hard and strong the whole season, and it all paid off in the end when they captured the conference championship title. These Lady Knights brought a lot of talent and skill to the high school court, and brought a very promising future for the upcoming varsity team.

Martha Gant says "We have become a very close team, and throughout the season have learned to work together really well."

This teamwork is definitely shown in all of the the wonderful accomplishments they have achieved. Together these Lady Knights were able to overcome every obstacle that they confronted. Their hard practices, experiences, and close friendships paved the way to their well earned sucess.

Bumping up the score... Lauren Corn stretches out and saves the ball to keep the game going. She was a very determined member of the team.

Serving up a point... Jessica Owens intensly serves the ball to add another point to the game. Jessica's skills helped the Ladies maintain their winning record.

It's all about team work...Karen Pace and Jessica Owens help each other out as they both go for the ball. All the J.V. ladies came together for a victorious season.

Slamming down the opponents...Kim Cairnes takes control of the court and spikes the ball over the net. Kim's strength and height were a great asset to the J.V. Lady Knights.

GAINING EXPERIENCE

Finding Victory in Defeat

By Molly Oates and Tad Venn

The 1995 North Henderson varsity football team gained valuable experience, both physically and mentally, throughout their season. Even though the season was long for the players, it was a successful one because of the intense obstacles that the team overcame.

The regular season began with a loss to mountain powerhouse Enka, 35-7. The Knights rebounded the next week with a close win, 21-19, against Rosman. The regular season ended with eight consecutive losses, but the team provided their competition with action-packed games.

Out of all four county high schools, the Knights played non-conference foe Brevard the best. The final score of 35-22 did not indicate the intensity that the Knights played with during the homecoming game. North played their best game of the season at Polk in harsh weather conditions, but lost 18-9.

The final two games of the year were against Hendersonville and Chase, the top two teams in the ACC. The Knights ended the season successfully with close, hard-fought losses, but gained victory in these defeats.

And he's off... Senior Roger McMurray takes the opening kickoff at East up the field into Eagle territory. As one of the leading receivers in Western North Carolina, Roger was an offensive threat to the opposition.

Kicking up success... Junior Brad Gross begins an away game by kicking off to the opposing team. Brad played both soccer and football, and excelled at both.

ENERGIZE IT!

Keeping the Spirit Alive

By Molly Oates

This year's cheerleading squad started practice immediately after tryouts in May to prepare for cheerleading camp, which both the varsity and junior varsity squads attended.

Cheerleading camp was held at Myrtle Beach the second week in June. The first day of camp, the varsity cheerleaders won the spirit stick. They also received the spirit stick for the whole week. In addition, the varsity cheerleaders competed against other squads in the cheer and dance competitions and placed second in each of these categories.

Beth Jackson competed against many other cheerleaders at camp and was chosen to be on the All-Star team.

Both varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders spent many afternoons, evenings, and Saturdays before and after football season preparing new dances and cheers, pep rallies, and class games. Each squad also spent many hours preparing treats for each team on their game day.

Cheerleading sponsors Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Anderson put a lot of time into thinking of new ideas and working with their squads to get them ready for weekly practices, pep rallies, and games.

They made it...On the last day of cheerleading camp, the varsity squad takes time to pose for a group picture before loading back on the bus. Camp was a great chance for all the girls to "bond" as a squad.

Reaching for the sky... Jennifer Peterson and Bridgette Henderson stand at attention during a home football game. Jennifer and Bridgette were common sights at the top of varsity's builds.

Flying high . . . "COME ON, CROWD!" was varsity's most difficult and impressive build. They spent many hours perfecting hard builds like this one.

RUNNING WITH IT

An Undefeated Season

By Shaun Plount

Junior Varsity football made a strong impression this year on our school, and on others, by finishing the season with a 10-0 undefeated record for the first time since the school opened. In addition, they were the only JV team in the state that didn't lose a game all season.

"We're the best that ever came out of North," said Ryan Rabain.

Coach Chuck Byrd said, "The success came from hard work and also from being a close knit team. Not only did the Sophomores lead the team, but there were Freshmen leaders as well."

Todd Morgan said, "It was our best year, and it was a lot of fun."

MAKING TRACKS

Runners Take Charge

By Kallie Prohn

This year's cross country team definitely made tracks for others to follow in the future. North girls were the first to ever capture a conference title for North Henderson. They went on to place third in regionals and seventh in state. The men's cross country team got second in conference and fourth in regionals.

Having placed second place in state, Aaron Keller said, "We had a fun year, and I was pleased with all of our performances."

The indoor track team was also successful in their season. Justin Rhodes said, "Indoor track is keeping me in condition for the outdoor track season."

"One of the best aspects of participating in indoor track is the experience of traveling to Chapel Hill for the meets," said Laura McCrain.

Even though there were only four meets, indoor track gave runners the chance to get the feelfor competition in the upcoming outdoor track season.

Grinning and bearing it...Shilloh Mielke had his shoe pulled off in the beginning of the race, so he just pulled his other shoe off and ran the rest of the race barefoot. Shilloh still managed to come out on top, with second place in the conference.

DEDICATED To Be A Champion

By Josh Kidd

It takes a lot of hard work and dedication to be a wrestler at North Henderson. From long practice hours to overnight tournament trips, there's not room for much else.

The team had a winning tradition with an all time record coming into this year of 24-4-1. Coach Bonnett has produced many state placers, and a state championship team in 1994. It looked good again for the wrestling Knights. Even though they had many young wrestlers, there was a lot of talent. They were undefeated at print time 4-0 and placed second at the Christ School Invitational.

The Knights had a long way to go, but the team had high hopes and the potential to be champions again.

Turn it on! Junior Eric Gilbert works to turn his opponent in the 215 pound weight class. Eric was very valuable to the team, coming off an undefeated season on J.V., placing second at the Christ School Invitational, and first at the War Eagle.

Set it up! Dallas "Scrub Boy" Anders works on setting up a takedown against Pisgah. Takedowns were a vital part of Dallas' wrestling arsenal. Dallas has been an important part of the Knights success for the past three years.

A PINNING COMBINATION

When Talent and Ability Come Together

By Rusty Albrecht

The J.V. Wrestling team came off of a remarkable season last year. With all of the talent that came up from Apple Valley and the ability of the returning wrestlers, it will prove to be another great season.

The Knights were 6-1-1 as of January 4 and were steadily improving.

Jason Blackwell said, "This year we have improved our focus. We determined our weaknesses and then we worked on turning those weaknesses into something we could use to our advantage."

You could see that they were really dedicated by the way they went through the grueling practices and what they had to go through just to keep their weight down to wrestle in each match.

Turn in... Kenny Tyra tries a sit-out from the short-sit position. With this just being his second year, he has gained a lot of ability. Kenny had a good season and was a driving force in the teams achievments.

He's STUCK... Jason Blackwell puts his opponent in a "head and arm." Jason won this match in the first period and was undefeated at press time.

Setting up a pin... Jessie Anders bars his opponent's arm in order to turn him for a pin, which came a little later in the match. Jessie provided a lot of leadership to the team.

Break free... Anthony Jones attempts to avoid being sent to the mat by getting wrist control on his opponent. Anthony moved up to varsity soon after this match with Pisgah.

WATER WORLD

Swimmers' Environment All Their Own

By Tad Venn

Home is where the heart is and the North High swimming team's heart was proud to call the Hendersonville YMCA "home." As the only place to swim indoors in the county, the YMCA proved to be "home" to all four county high schools. Therefore, practices in the water were limited to three or four a week, for an hour each.

With its biggest team in school history, North placed higher at meets than in year's past. This increase in swimmers also helped North to form more relay teams. However, the team's opponents had two or three times as many swimmers as North did, and were thus able to win the meets.

Twelve out of the eighteen team members were first-year swimmers and with only three seniors, the team should be as strong as ever in the future. As Coach Burch said, "you may not be a star swimmer this year, but if you stick to your goals and work hard to achieve them, then you will be a star in years to come."

Stroke! Stroke! Junior Kristie Corn glides through the water while performing the breaststroke. As an All-Conference and regional qualifier for the past two years, Kristie looked forward to another successful season with the Knights.

Move aside! Freshman Tiffaney Futch teaches fellow rookie swimmer, Robbie Weast, to get out of her way when she is swimming. Swimmers tapped each other on the feet when they wanted to pass by.

Lady Knights Light Up Scoreboard

By Molly Oates and Tad Venn

An aggressive inside game and a powerful outside attack boosted the 1995-1996 girls varsity basketball team to yet another successful season. The year also provided the school's first junior varsity girls team.

After two early season losses, the Lady Knights rebounded with four consecutive wins and entered the Christmas break with a 5-2 overall record. The team was led by sophomores Kristi Garren, Jackie Stepp, and Jenny Stepp. With only three seniors and one junior, the team has high aspirations in years to come.

The J.V. team was also young with all freshman except for one junior, Miriam Oviedo.

Head coach Melony Winters said, "We improved steadily and played better as a team each game."

Shoot to Win! Sophomore Jenny Stepp demonstrates her shooting ability during the Lady Knights first home game. The varsity team was able to overcome their height disadvantage through their accurate shooting.

Looking for Help... Freshman Jessica Owens searches for an open teammate. Jessica sparked the junior varsity team's offense by leading them in scoring.

Jump Ball! Scrambling on the floor with a T. C. Roberson player, freshman Stacey Jones tries to gain the upper hand on the ball. This type of hustle was shown throughout the season by the junior varsity team.

Warming up . . . DeWayne Davis leads the team onto the court before the game. Warm ups gave the players a chance to loosen up before competition.

Gettin' up . . . T.J. Baldwin takes the tipoff to begin the first game of the season against T.C. Roberson. T.J. proved his usefullness in many games.

To the hoop . . . Mike McDaniels drives to the basket and shoots over T.C. Roberson's defense. Mike's scoring ability was very important to the team.

Walk it off . . . Brad Gross is assisted off the court by Coach Gary Pittillo after he twists his ankle. Brad was a great asset to the team as a starting junior.

JUMPING OFF

For A Good Season

by Shaun Plount

Through long hours of hard practice, the varsity men's basketball team grew very close.

"We're a family working together," said Tim Thomas. "As long as we look out for each other like we have been, wins will come."

Coach Pittillo pushes his players to become the best team possible, and everyone seems to have had high hopes for this season.

"We have a lot of hustle and pride in this year's team. As soon as we start playing together and catch some breaks, we'll come around," said Jim Gabbard.

The whole team put forward the extra effort to get better.

Coach Gary Pittillo said, "The young men have been working hard to improve their level of play, and seem to enjoy hustling and playing scrappy defense."

T.J. Baldwin summed up the team's motivation when he said, "I love this game."

SOARING SPIRITS

Through Victory and Defeat

By Molly Oates

Since there were two different cheerleading tryouts for the basketball and football seasons, there was not very much time for the cheerleaders to prepare. After tryouts, each squad had only two weeks to get everything together.

The varsity squad soon learned that putting up new builds was a lot easier with the addition of an extra cheerleader. The addition of an extra cheerleader also made it easier to rearrange builds since they started off the season with many cheerleaders being sick and injured.

The varsity cheerleaders attended a cheerleading competition in March at Carowinds. Last year they placed 3rd, and had high expectations this year.

The junior varsity squad started off the season in the auxillary gym, but sooned moved back to the main gym.

"I would rather cheer in the main gym because there were no chairs for the fans to sit in, and we had to sit on the floor," said Christy Fore, 9th grade.

Christal Owenby said, "I like cheering in the main gym better because there is more of a crowd to cheer to."

The junior varsity and varsity cheerleaders teamed up together to try and sell North afghans to raise money for new uniforms. The highest selling duo recieved a free meal at Kyoto's at the other cheerleaders' expense.

Building Spirit! The J.V. Cheerleaders successfully put up a build while cheering on their team. It was a big change for the J.V. Cheerleaders to cheer for two basketball teams this year instead of one, like last year.

BATTLING IT OUT

OFF TO A GOOD START

By Jamie Harris

The junior varsity boys' basketball team got off to their best start in three years by winning seven straight games after losing their home opener to T.C. Roberson.

The junior varsity team had all of the elements for success, with five players returning from last year's squad to show experience and leadership. They also had height, speed, and most of all, real talent.

With eleven new players on the team, they had to come together and adjust quickly in order to continue with their fast start and success.

Jonathan Cunningham had this to say about the team: "We played good as a team this year and hard work and dedication contributed to our wins."

Justin Owensby goes for the lay-up in a win against Rosman. The team's ability to connect on the fastbreak and drive the open lane were two major keys to their offensive strategy.

Brian Corn and Radames Hodges battle for a rebound in the season opener against T. C. Roberson. Brian's quickness and Radames's strength made a lethal combination for their opponents.

Together We STAND

Students participated in a variety of school and community activities. Clubs and organizations were founded that ranged in focus from service groups and cultural organizations to special interest areas and vocations. Teachers and community leaders selflessly devoted many hours to sponsor these organizations and serve as role models for the students.

Clubs found out early on that an orgainzation cannot function with one person doing the work of twenty. It was important for everyone involved to take on an active role from the very beginning. In order to track their progress and weed out members who were not interested in working on club activities, organizations such as the Keywanettes and National Honor Society developed a point system. Only by workingtogether could these clubs and organizations be successful.

JUST SAY NO

A Positive Influence Through Drug Awareness

Organizations such as SADD, PRIDE, and Interact have worked hard this year in making students aware of the rising problem of alcohol and drug usage not only in our country, but in our community.

These groups focused on increasing community awareness about the consequences of drug abuse.

As spring approached, SADD worked to increase student involvement by having students sign the Prom Promise, pledging to be substance free on prom night.

PRIDE is another organization concerned with achieving substance awareness. They started by working with the DARE program in elementary schools, opening the eyes for younger generations to the problems in drug involvement.

Interact held a drug awareness seminar, in which speakers came to talk with students of the consequences in using drugs.

These organizations have been very successful in reaching students and increasing knowledge in drug awareness.

A SOCIAL SOCIETY

Getting Together to Get Things Done

What would we do without our social life? Imagine having to spend one night without talking on the telephone.

North Henderson's clubs, academic functions, and athletic events provided a wide variety of social activities. The clubs also got the community involved in these social gatherings. For instance, the Keywanettes sponsored a Halloween carnival and HOSA sponsored their third anual Blood Drive. In additon, the National Honor Society visited Pine Park Nursing Home once a month.

EARTH FRIENDLY

Are You Ready To Lend a Helping Hand?

Our landfills are overflowing with disposable products, the beaches are polluted by sewage and medical waste, and our water supplies are being contaminated by excessive chemical runoff.

These are only some of the problems facing our environment. By recycling, installing water saving devices, buying products with less packaging or products that do not release CFC'S (Chlorofluorocarbons), we can work to save our environment.

Many clubs at North care enough to make a difference. For example HOSA adopted a highway and the National Honor Society hosted a "campus clean-up" every week.

LASTING IMPRESSIONS

Taking Time Out to Help the Community

Our community reflects the concern of the Knights around every corner. Each club of North had several community projects they participated in, ranging from raking leaves for the elderly to Adopting-A-Highway. Even though these events sometimes placed burdens on the students, it always seemed that everything was done with smiling faces and caring attitudes.

The Knights have definitely left their mark in the community and at school. The time that the clubs have taken to help the community and the school will be remembered and greatly appreciated for many years to come.

SERVICE ABOVE SELF

Bettering the Community Through Hardwork and Fellowship

Many organizations put a lot of time and effort into assisting the community this year. Two such clubs were Keywanettes and FHA. The members of these clubs took time out of their busy schedules to help others in the community.

The Keywanettes held their annual Halloween party for children in the area in October. Each member dressed up in a costume of their choice and put smiles on many children's faces.

The members of FHA also did their part in helping the community by adopting a needy family for Christmas. They spent around one hundred dollars buying gifts for the family.

By providing for the community, these clubs changed lives and gained personal joy at the same time.

Working TOGETHER

No matter how much fun the school year was, students were forced to remember that real, often frightening, reason they drug themselves to school every morning: to receive an education.

MAKING THE GRADE. It proved to be harder than it looks. Some students found that learning was a little easier if it was done together in study groups, but when it came down to the wire, they were on their own.

This year, students made frequent use of the media center and computer labs during school hours while also spending many hours at home and at the library trying to make the best grades they could.

Say good-bye to "science by the book": Mr. Gore helps his Physics class conduct an experiment on acceleration. Mr. Gore worked hard to find ways to make his Physics and Chemistry classes interesting. By doing experiments to clarify different lessons, he was able to make science come to life. Throughout the year Mr. Gore could be seen doing "experiments" while sprinting down the hall, flinging rubber balls into the air, and swinging bowling balls at his students. Sound strange? Not at all.

Accepting the challenge
WITH HONORS

☐ Tad Venn ☐

☐ "Advanced Placement and Honors classes move faster and you can learn more." Anne Osterman, 11th grade.

☐ "I am taking advanced courses because teachers influenced me not to slack off during my senior year." Sandra Stepp, 12th grade.

☐ "By making a high grade in an Honors class, you can earn more credits." Tiffaney Futch, 9th grade.

☐ "Honors and Advanced Placement classes will help me to prepare for college level courses." Darik Schumacher, 11th grade.

☐ "I keep asking myself why I am taking Honors and A.P. classes!" Elise Sharpton, 12th grade.

☐ "I enjoy teaching A.P. because it is a challenge. The students are very motivated and I learn as much from them as they do from me." Sharon Whitted, A.P. Calculus Teacher.

PUZZLED?

MEDALS OF HONOR

Juniors Catherine Medd, Anne Osterman, and Aaron Keller show off their winning smiles and medals they won while at the Western North Carolina Science Fair last spring. All Honors Biology I students were required to create a science project for the fair.

CRAM TIME!

A SLICE OF REALITY

Mrs. Sherri Hill and Stephanie Razor carefully slice into and examine the internal anatomy of a fetal pig. All of Mrs. Hill's Advanced Biology classes were required to dissect a fetal pig and write a report on the functions of the pig's muscles and organs.

WHAT DID YOU DO?

Juniors Karla McGraw, Kyle Corn, and Tommy Williams try to figure out what is going on during a lab in Mr. Gore's chemistry class. Mr. Gore's classes were often filled with many different labs to help students visually see what was really going on.

CUT IT OUT!

☐ Molly Oates ☐

☐ "Labs let you work well with others, and it's always fun when your partner gets grossed out." Courtney Sanders, 11th grade.

☐ "Labs make everything so much easier to understand, when you can see it right in front of your face." Angela Barber, 11th grade.

☐ "It is a pleasent change of scenery, after we've taken a lot of notes." Seth Weaver, 11th grade.

☐ "Labs allow the class to come together as a whole and they are more educational than listening to a teacher." Charity Dermid, 12th grade.

☐ "In labs, there is a strong display of work." Chris Williamson, 9th grade.

☐ "Labs are an exciting opportunity to leave textbooks behind and get a hands-on experience." Scott McHenry, 12th grade.

CHECK THIS OUT!

James Albritton and other members of his Biology I class put away their bacteria cultures after examining their growth. They used bacteria cultures to see what bacteria was growing on the water fountains and desks.

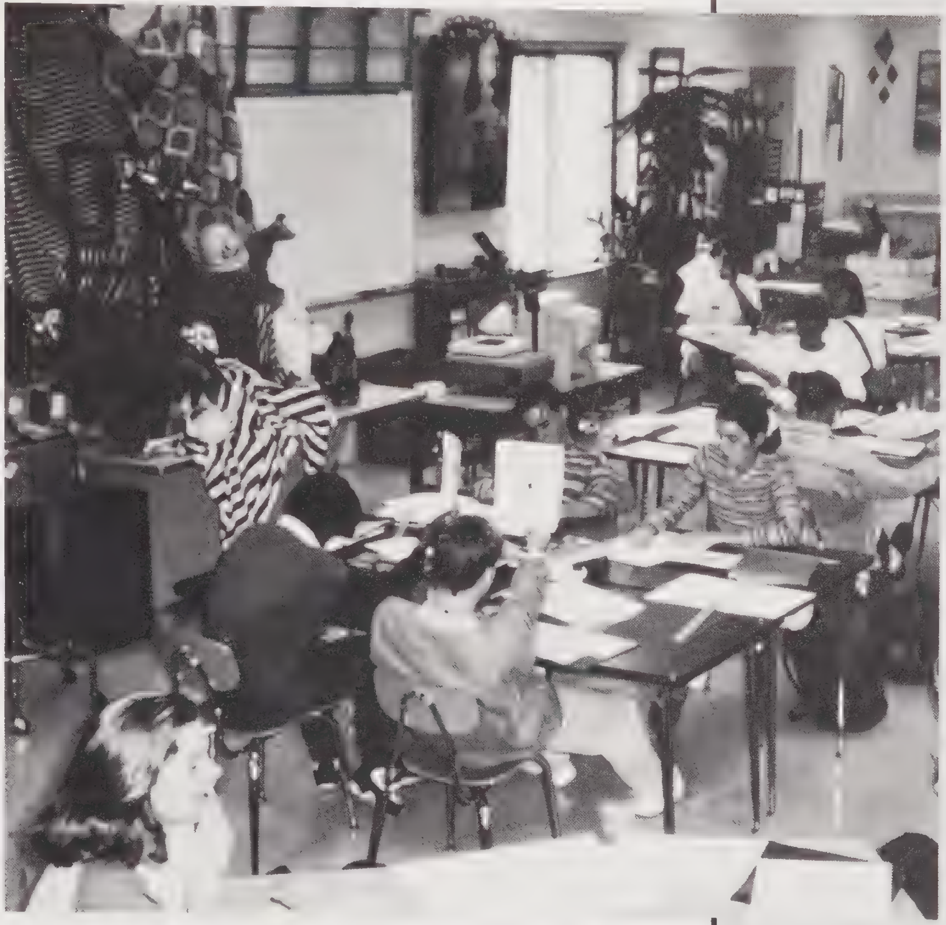
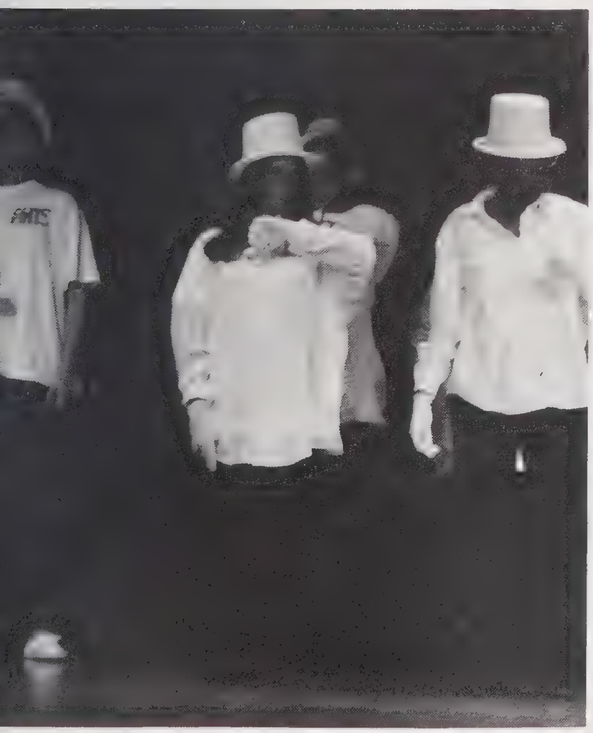
GET A PERSPECTIVE

Mr. Lewis's art two class looks through their "camera" to find a compostion for their still life. He taught more than just how to draw; he prepared his students for the real world.





PUMP UP THE JAM

Tiffany Ledbetter, Julie Peterson, and Kwanda Jones put on a show for students in the theatre. The dance students worked hard preparing the routines with Mrs. Justice.

SING, SING, SING

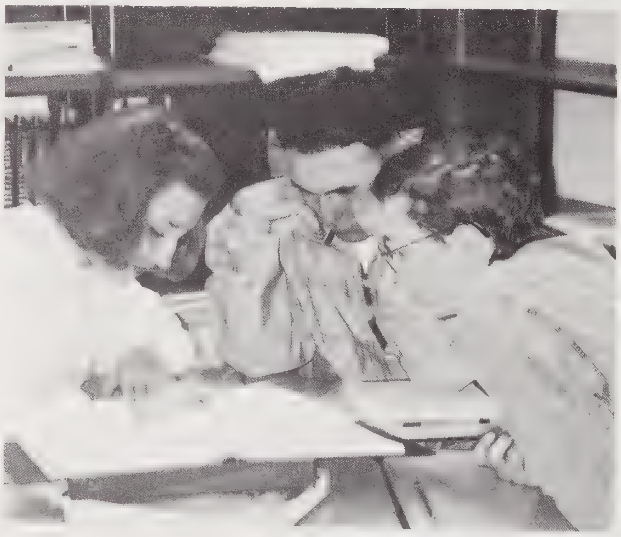
Benji Banks, Luis Perez, Scott Gilbert, Keisha Corn, Mary Short, and Stephanie Hyder practice the chorus Christmas program. It takes courage to get up in front of a crowd and sing.

WORKING HARD !

Christy Massey works on one of her assignments in Biology. In this particular experiment, the class taped up their thumbs to see how hard it was to to do things without that part of their hand.

THAT'S A BIG TREE

Students enjoy themselves in Washington D.C. When it comes to school, everyone has a favorite subject but there is rarely anything better than a field trip.



USING YOUR HEAD

Three heads are better than one! Christy Saltz, Tony Lindsey, and Robbie Lunsford worked in a group to get their assignment completed a little quicker.

FINE COOKING

Matt Melton, Autumn Henderson, and Amanda Thomas prepare some food during Foods and Nutrition class. They have cooked many things in class, such as chili, pasta, and pizza.

What Are Your Favorite Classes?

SCHOOL RELATED FUN

☐ Wesley Corn ☐

☐ "I like Auto Mechanics because I like working on cars more than I like working in books." Justin McCraw, 10th grade.

☐ "Keyboarding is my favorite class because it is helping me prepare for the future." Darrell Redden, 11th grade.

☐ "Algebra is my favorite class because the work is easy and my friends are in the class." Meredith Jones, 9th grade.

☐ "Dance is my favorite subject because it's fun and you can be energetic." Jessica Tobey, 10th grade.

☐ "Drama is my favorite class because it allows you to express your mind freely." Tara Beddingfield, 10th grade.

☐ "I like P.E. the best out of all my classes because it is an active class, and I don't have to sit behind a desk and use pencil and paper." Chris Green, 10th grade.

What is That?!

The Auto Tech class takes time out of its "busy" schedule to pose for a picture with their "homemade bike." This was not planned by Coach Byrd, it was one of those things that just happened when you were in shop class.

Peer Mediation

IT HELPS!

❑ Shaun Plount ❑

❑ "Peer Mediation is a good way to keep people out of trouble." Randy Cox, 12th grade.

❑ "We learned how to work out our problems without afflicting anger." Lisa Garrett, 10th grade.

❑ "The Peer Mediation seminar was an interesting experience which helped me understand the difficulty mediators have remaining impartial and maintaining a civil atmosphere to keep the lines of communication open." Coach Kirk McMurray, Teacher.

❑ "Peer Mediators have been trained to help other students find a talking solution to their problems. They are available to help every period." Derwin Williams, Guidence Councelor.

❑ "Peer Mediation was designed to let people talk out their problems face to face, rather than fighting." Stacey Cook, 11th grade.

❑ " Peer Mediation taught me that there are several different ways to solve your problems rather than violence. Good listening skills and an open mind are characteristics of a good mediator." Bambi DeFebbo, 12th grade.

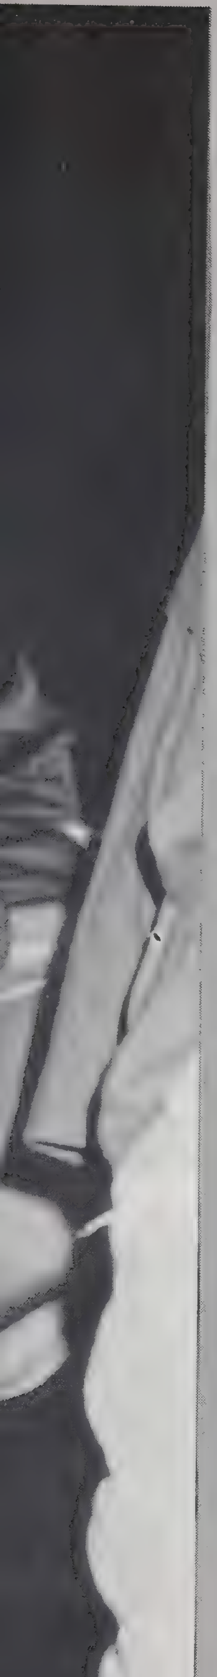
GETTING INVOLVED

Sherri Hill participates during a role-playing activity. The teachers that went to the seminar learned as much as the students.

During a class game at a pep rally, freshman Adam Huntley struggles to quickly pull on a pair of football pants so his class can win the relay race. Adam was chosen by the cheerleaders to represent his class in this game.

Pep rallies, sports events and other school activities were good opportunities for students, faculty, and administrators to gather together outside the classroom and get to know each other better.



Coming of AGE

WELCOME FRESHMEN . . . The freshmen class, one of the biggest in school history, jumped into high school with ease and got involved enthusiastically in school activities. Members of the sophomore class enjoyed not being the brunt of "freshmen jokes" anymore, while the juniors looked to their oncoming senior year with anticipation. The senior class grew closer as it looked back on fond memories of times spent together and prepared for a fast-approaching graduation ceremony. Though diverse in backgrounds, culture, and ways of life, the people at North were coming together in 1996.

Students, staff, faculty, bus drivers - they were all invaluable pieces of the large puzzle that made up North. If pieces were missing, the puzzle could not be completed and therefore would not be able to function.

Almost Top Dog

THE CLASS OF 1997

Wait 'til next year . . .

For the Juniors, this year was very exciting. On the whole, juniors got to experience the Junior-Senior Prom for the first time. It was also a year of joy because all the Juniors knew that they had only one more year until graduation. On the down side, the Juniors also knew that this would be one of the toughest years that they have ever had in terms of academics.

To be able to go to the prom, each junior had to contribute equally. The Juniors had some money saved from fundraisers they had done as Sophomores and class dues, so they did not have as much money to earn as previous classes. They held the Winter Wonderland Dance and sold candy to earn money. As a class, the Juniors had to earn between $6,000 and $8,000 to hold the prom. If you did not wish to contribute to these sales, you had to pay more class dues, and if you did not pay the class dues, you could not go to the prom.

Psst! Guess what? Adrianne Glassey and Laura Jackson share a secret while riding a bus. Riding the bus was a perfect time to talk to friends

The Gift of Speech

Do Not Take it for Granted

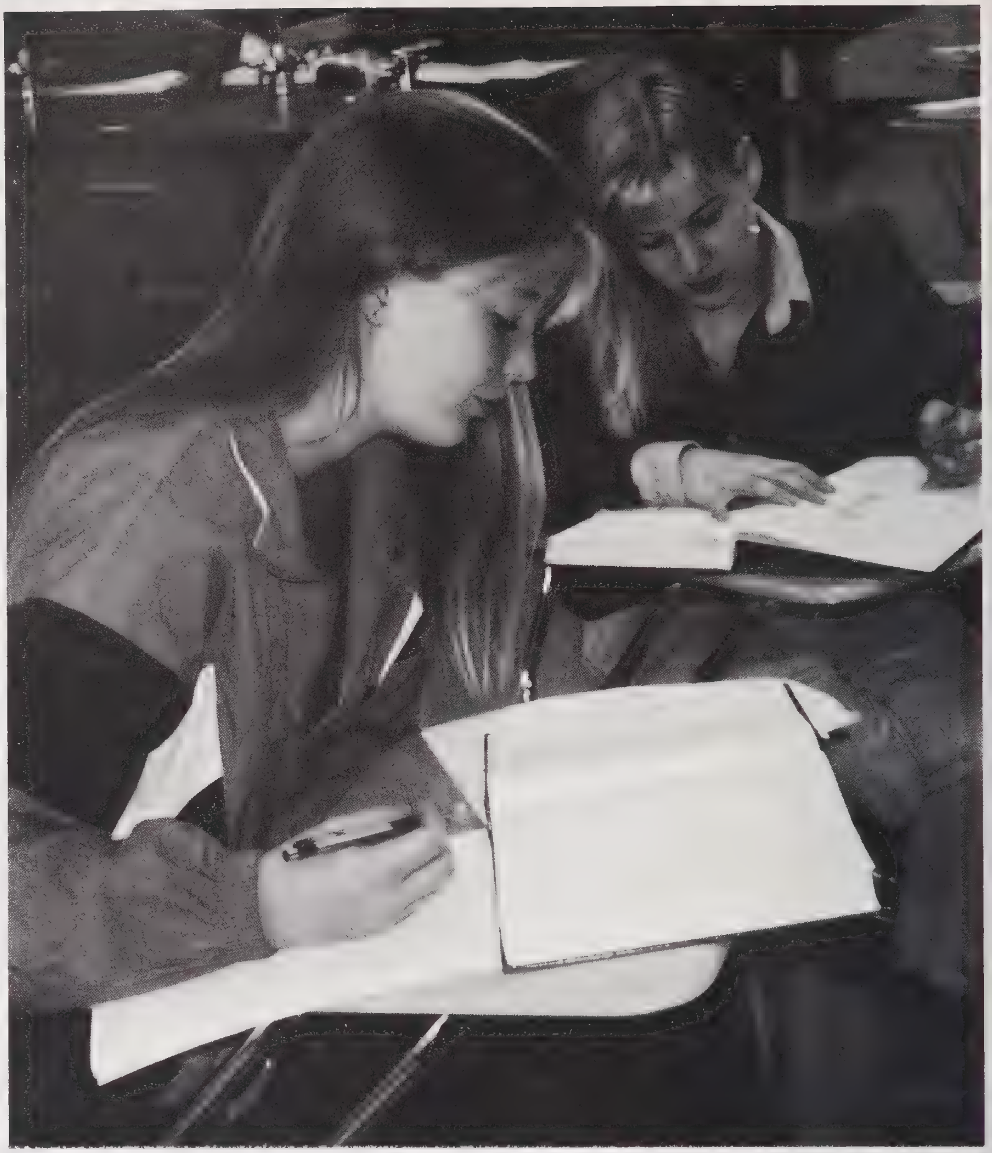
What would the world be like if no one could talk? There would be no telephones, church choirs, or Christmas caroling. Speech grants people the right to voice ideas, greet others with a "hello," or comfort someone as Adria Shipp did when she visited Pine Park rest home. Talking is essential to everyone, especially students, whether it be chatting with a friend in the hallway or giving an opinion in a club.

Everyone has the right to be heard, and in turn everyone has the obligation to listen. Voicing an opinion does not require a certain amount of money, a certain I.Q., or a certain ethnic background. All it takes is the courage to stand up and be heard, something that Juniors did not have a problem with.

Juniors let the faculty and administration know what they wanted for the prom, what fundraisers they thought would be effective, and what they wanted for their future senior year, and were not afraid to receive criticism.

-Jarrett Whiteside-

All Work and No Play...



The Pains and Gains of Being a Junior

While most students obtained the privilege and freedom to drive during their junior year, they also gained added responsibilities. This balance of schoolwork and extra-curricular activities is one that all Juniors learned to maintain and accept grudgingly. Some students, like Kristi Lloyd and Courtney Sanders, tried to get their homework done at school so they would have more free time at home.

The word "junior" has become synonymous with grief and anxiety due to the SAT and the difficulty of the course Juniors take in preparation for gradua tion.

"This year is a lot more stressfu because I don't have a lot of free time, said Heather Houdek.

For most students, however, th stress was a small price to pay fo getting their driver's license. Not hav ing to ride the "yellow fellow" is prob ably the most anticipated aspect of be ing a junior.

Leaders In And Out of Class

Setting an Example Everyone Should Follow

Whether it meant tutoring other classmates, being a peer mediator, or participating in Student Council, Juniors always rose to the occassion and took the lead. When there was something that needed doing, a junior was usually there to help.

The Interact Club officers, which were all juniors, organized the club's functions, like who was to attend the luncheon with the Rotary Club each Tuesday.

"The Rotary Club luncheons gave us a chance to bridge the generation gap and incorporate our youthful ideas with their leadership," said Interact Vice President Joey Waechter.

Leadership qualities are found in everyone, but what makes the difference between a leader and a follower is how the qualities are utilized. The juniors found their own way of using their abilities to better the school and themselves.

Giving and Taking Helpful Advice

Substitutes are an Important Part of School

Like them or not, students had to deal with a substitute teacher at some point in their education. Some students thought a substitute meant doing nothing in class, but when they got to class they may have found out differently.

Their jobs as substitutes were complicated because most of them did not know the names of their students and they were not fully knowledgeable of the classroom rules. Also students sometimes made it difficult for them to do their job by not listening to them.

Mr. Zebos was probably the most popular substitute with his "Everyone is Great" philosophy and his interesting stories. Mrs. Lyda is also a popular substitute because she seems to know everyones' names and who their friends are. Mr. Figart is also popular among the students because of his good sense of humor and his insightful advice on life.

Substitute teachers are just as essential as our usual teachers, but are often taken advantage of. Their patience, extreme effort, and caring demeanors are just a few of their many overlooked qualities.

11 Years Down and 1 to Go

Eleven years behind us and only one more to go. The past eleven years went by fast and we are all looking forward to being the seniors we all know we can be. As we prepare for the responsibilities of a senior, we will also enjoy what is left of our lives as Juniors. We are not the last on the chain anymore, which is nice. We will soon be the rulers of North Henderson High School, and no one will be safe.

Juniors Rally Around the School

Showing Their Dedication to North

The Juniors proved themselves to be one of the most spirited classes, besides the Seniors, at North Henderson High School.

At almost all of the pep rallies, the Juniors stood up and cheered with the cheerleaders. Also at most of the pep rallies, the Juniors came in second behind the Seniors. The Seniors had so much spirit because they knew this would be their last year in high school.

During Spirit week, the Juniors dressed up as people from the 1970's, Cowboy and Indians, and as their favorite Disney character. Spirit week was a contest between all the classes to see which class had the most spirit.

The Juniors also rallied in the classroom, knowing that this would be a hard year of SAT testing, ACT testing, and making good grades so that they could get into college. Students knew that this was one of the most important years because colleges looked at these grades most closely.

Don't Mess With Us

No Longer the "Little Guys!"

What do you feed your face . . . Steven Walker knows what that is all about. One of the best things about pep rallies is watching our peers participating in all kinds of comical activities.

Craig Holbert said the thing that he liked about pep rallies is that "it gets you pumped up before a football game."

The Sophomores came in third in overall points during Homecoming week. In beating the Freshmen, we further proved that we are no longer the "little guys!"

Tell Me All About It

Hey! Make some room! Beth Kai, Danny Edwards, and Tiffany Grice walk down X-hall to their next class. No matter what hall you were on it is always hard to make your way through the crowds of people.

Catching Up On the Latest Gossip

Sophomores Tammy Livingston, Christy Trivette, Joy Cox and Jennifer Garland stand around and catch up on the latest gossip. These friends could always be seen in the hall “talking it up.”

Students used the ten minute break to catch up on what happened over the weekend with their hot date or what just happened in their last class.

“I like to stand in the hall and talk to people,” said Kim Cox.

Whether you’re running around trying to find “you know who,” going to check your hair in the bathroom, trying to do your homework befo class, the ten minute break is alway used to the fullest.

“I sit down and relax and do m homework,” said Ernesto Zelaya.

This year more teachers enforce the “no leaving class, use your ten mi utes” rule which made it more difficult find excuses to get out of class. Studen were therefore forced to learn to use the time more wisely.

“Hey Good Looking! Whatcha Got Cooking?”

How About Cooking Something Up for Me?

The smell of food could always be ticed on X-hall. Sophomore Tiffany dbetter and junior Tammy Cutshaw ake macaroni and cheese and cole aw in Foods and Nutrition class. Stu- nts learned how to cook and make cipes in Ms. Lancaster's class.

“The class showed me how to live your own especially in college,” d Ernie Bocchino.

The students also learned how to ove around in a kitchen, as well as e care of their food properly. This helped them prepare for their future lives when they will get out of college and have places of their own.

“It helped me get a better understanding of living alone or in a family,” said Daniel Tapia.

Students had to wash dishes and clean up after themselves and therefore learned responsibilty and how to follow directions. Home ecomomics was not just a course about cleaning house, but how to survive in the real world.

Class Officers Rising to the Challenge

As a part of tradition, the class and student body officers were inducted by the previous student body president. This induction took place at the end of last year. They had to take an oath promising to do the best job possible to better our school.

Raising Funds for the Future

The sophomore class officers worked vigorously to earn money for the 1997 prom. They collected dues and did various fund raisers. The dues were six dollars per person. As a reward for paying their dues, the sophomores were given the opportunity to purchase a sub from Subway. During the first week of school the officers provided juice and doughnuts to the sophomores during homeroom.

"Student council has taught me a lot of leadership skills. We do a lot of teamwork and help a lot at school," comments Ashley Justice on being a class officer.

Through cooperation and hard work they hope to make our prom the best ever. The officers were: Scottie Parks, President; Noel Gunter, Vice President; Brittiany Allen, Treasurer; Ashley Justice, Secretary.

Several sophomore band members rest during a tough day at band camp. The camp began a week before school and gave the students a chance to freshen up their skills after the long summer break. In the long run this camp was worth the time and hard work when the band and flag corp received a "Superior" rating at competition in Alcoa.

Jenny Stepp spikes the ball against an opponent. "They added lots of talent and quality minutes at a varsity level and performed well. Not many Sophomores get that chance," said Coach Moon of her sophomore players.

Leading Ladies and Perfect Gentlemen

Contributing to Extra-Curricular Activities

The Sophomore athletes and band members worked hard and practiced hard to advance to victory.

The J.V. football team was led by the Sophomores to a 10-0 season. The varsity volleyball team, with the assistance of four Sophomores, went on to the semi-finals of the state volleyball competition.

The Marching Knights, which included several Sophomores, competed in a band and flag corp competition in Alcoa, Tennesee, and earned a "Superior" rating.

By working together with each other and other members of the student body, the Sophomores were able to accomplish many goals.

Lost in the Shuffle

Freshmen Try to Find Their Way Around

Freshman Anthony "AJ" Jacobs and Todd Morgan discuss strategies for the J.V. game football. AJ, as halfback , and Todd, as receiver, were valuble assets to the JV Knights. Being the "Rookie" on the team was a learning experience for most the JV players. They learned from the varsity players but most of all the knowledge of playing the game as a team member was the key to success. Although in the beginning the freshmen were "lost in the shuffle," these new additions to the North Henderson halls quickly caught on to the everyday routine led by the upperclassmen.

Freshmen were greatly appreciated even though they were picked on by some upperclassmen. The freshman year is the starting block of your high school career, as well as one of the most memorable. The Freshmen brought a new outlook to everything going on in school, from sports to classwork.They had unique ideas and were very spirited at games and pep rallies.

Just Hangin' in the Halls

Making New Friends

E*dna Goodman*, ShaNeka Evans and Blake Henson "hang out" in the halls during a class change. Beginning a new year as a freshman also brings new friendships. Catching up on the latest gossip or just goofing around is what goes on in the halls of North when you were waiting around for class to start.

Friendships are special because there is no set way to make them. Many Freshmen not only make friends with their class but tagged along with the upperclassmen, learning how to carry on their traditions. For many students, getting to see their friends was the main reason they came to school.

The halls weren't the only places you would find groups of friends just "hangin' out." They could be seen at sporting events and even on the weekends. Also groups of friends were seen all over North talking between classes, and much to their teachers' dismay, during class as well.

Many Freshmen could be found on the phone with friends talking about "homework" or what they were going to do on the weekend. Friendships were made to last and the memories of these school days spent talking in the halls will never be forgotten.

Brandi Franklin, Kandi Ellis, Stacey Jones, Ty Chhorn, and Sophomore Craig Holbert are dazzled by the snow flurries one afternoon during school. Many times the weather conditions made it possible to get out of a few moments of class.

Fun -N- Games at Pep Rallies

These freshmen are definitely coming out of their shells. Being the new edition to North was intimidating for the Freshmen at first. However, after a few pep rallies, almost all of them broke away from their shyness. By the time the last pep rally rolled around a noticeable difference could be seen in each and every Freshman.

It's Time to Come Out of Your Shell...

Misti Quick, Mandi Corn, Adam Huntley, and Todd Morgan, along with varsity cheerleaders Cassie Jones and Kelly Staton, anxiously wait to start their class game.

Almost every pep rally held this year included some type of competition between classes. This game consisted of dressing up in a football uniform, putting your head on a bat and spinning around three times, then running across the gym floor to the other members of your team, undressing, and getting the next person ready for the same thing. The first class to dress and undress the whole team won.

As a whole, the Freshmen wildly expressed how much they enjoyed themselves during the pep rally games. However, it took a lot of courage for the Freshmen to get up in front of the whole school to participate. Being new to North took the Freshmen awhile to get used to, but eventually they came out of their shells!

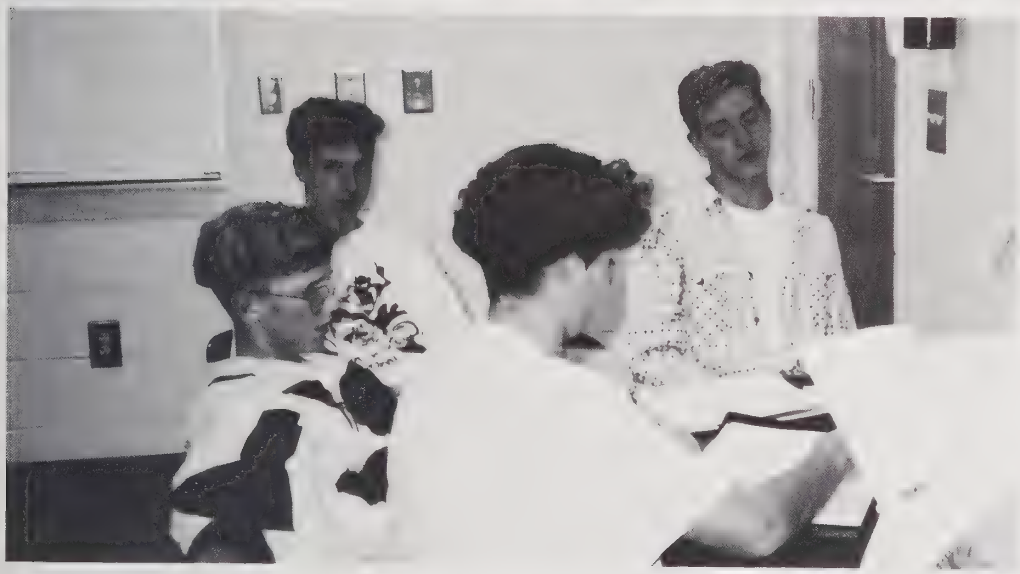
The J.V. Volleyball players listen closely to Coach Williams explain the next play of the game. Group work definitely played an important role in each and every one of the team's games. They proved over and over again that working together as a team really was successful. Their cooperation and commitment concerning the team led them to the top.

Group Work Proves To Be Successful



Cooperation is the Key!

Joe Stepp, Wade Talley, Blake Berger, and Catrina McKinney work together on one of their assignments in Mrs. Hall's Workplace Readiness class.

This year teachers used cooperative learning in their classrooms much more. Using groups to work on assignments is a helpful way to get students to open up and learn cooperation skills. Each person realizes that they are valuable to the group and their ideas count.

Mrs. Singletary feels that cooperative learning is beneficial not only for students but for teachers too.

"When students work together and turn in one paper for a group of four or five it reduces the amount of papers I have to grade tremendously. Also, there are times that I stand in front of the class and explain what to do and some students still don't understand. In this situation peers often are able to help each other understand the assignments once they get into their groups," stated Mrs. Singletary.

Throughout the year students and teachers continuously saw the advantages of cooperative learning.

Only an hour and a half to go . . . students work hard in typing class. It is not always the most enjoyable class, but typing is a skill everyone needs.

When you come up from Apple Valley, you are given much more freedom. The laid back attitude of the teachers is well appreciated by the Freshmen in the classroom and in the hall. No matter what they say, the Freshmen know that the classes are even better in high school.

These students are very enthusiastic about their work. Being the youngest in the school is hard, but it's something everyone has to do.

Not Just Taking Up Space

Freshmen Stacey Jones, A.J. Jacobs, Christal Owenby, Mandi Corn, Brandi Franklin, and Adam Huntley strike a pose in the Commons Area.

When the Freshmen came up from Apple Valley, they not only brought 217 students with them, but they also brought talent. Many of the Freshmen had special skills that added to the character of North Henderson. Whether it was playing in the band, working in the art room, or winning on the football field, the Freshmen were playing their part and becoming true Knights.

Whether it be at an athletic event, quiz bowl, technology fair, or an organization induction, Principal Mr. Thomas and Vice Principals Mrs. Corn and Mr. Barnwell could always be found in attendance to show their support of our school, its staff and its students. They were usually "decked out" in North Henderson High School "gear."

Despite the fact that Mr. Thomas and Mr. Barnwell were a part of the administration at Edneyville High School, while Mrs. Corn previously worked at Rugby Middle School, these three quickly came together at North and set a good example for the rest of the staff and the entire student body.

A Side of the Staff We Haven't Seen

Fun in the sun! Mr. Weast and Coach Pittillo "chill" in the lake over the summer to relax. As members of the science department, Mr. Weast and Coach Pittillo became good friends in and out of school. The entire science department was very close, and found time to get together for special events such as holidays and sporting events.

It is a little unusual for us to see these two away from their labs, or in the case of Coach Pittillo, away from the basketball court. Students usually have a difficult time getting used to seeing their teachers in their home environments, acting like "normal people." Believe it or not, teachers have lives too!

With Mrs. Lemmons' leadership and with a combined effort of various teachers and herself, North placed second out of the four high schools in the county at the Technology Fair. This resulted in a reward of $1000 to be put towards new technology for North Henderson.

Kristin Lea Milligan

To Our Darling Daughter:

From the moment we first held our little four and half pound bundle of "JOY" we loved you...

Through the years, Kristin, we watched as you grew. We marveled at the changes, major and minor ones...

Now here we are at an important stepping stone in your young life. It is truly hard to imagine that our "baby girl" is about to embark on her own lifetime of adventures. We wish you success in your college career and we also wish you all the great things the future has to offer. Kristin, we want you to know that you have always been a source of pride and inspiration to both of us. We greatly admire your inner strength, independence and caring attitudes. Just wanted you to know that we both love you so much. You are in our hearts forever. We will miss our "little girl" when you go off to college. Yet we know you must follow your dreams and reach for the stars. The world is waiting for you, so go forth now...make it a better place for all of us!!

Dear Charity:
You've grown up so fast...
It seems like only yesterday that I was making decisions for you, and now, you do most of that yourself.
You've become a lovely young lady and I'm so very proud of you!
As you take on new challenges,
follow your instincts,
find confidence within your heart,
and always, always, maintain your integrity.
I love you - as big as the sky!

Dear Ryan,

You've made it to another milestone in your life. As you continue to shape your future, we are behind you, supporting you and cheering you on. We love you very much and are very proud of you.

Love,
Mom and Dad

Cristy Wilkie

We thank God daily for entrusting you in our care and for having the privilege of watching you grow from our precious little girl into the beautiful young lady. We are so proud of your faith in God, and your strong moral stand has been a special blessing for us. This is the beginning of a new stage in your life, leaving high school and going to a place of higher education. We know you have the ability to accomplish anything you set a goal for. You will be facing a lot of decisions in your life that only you can make, and we will support you in whatever you choose. We will always be there for you no matter what! Always remember Proverbs 3:5,6. Don't ever lose that big smile and great compassion for others. That's what makes you such a special person!

We Love You,
Dad, Mom, and Jerome

Lessons

I know a Mother thinks that
She should make it perfect
For you while you are hers;
But should is of the world
To make her believe that
If it's not perfect she's Thought the less of thee;
But deep inside a Mother knows
That if all was perfect
How would you grow;
For you need to know that
God loves you so
His wish for you is
For you to gain in wisdom
And help you grow;
Not all growth is pleasant
At times it may seem
To hurt you so
Behind all this I love you tho;
Through life's trials and sufferings
You start to lean and gain
In self worth inside to hold;
Which leads you to know
That with trust and
A growing love in God
You will know that you are whole.

Love, Mom
(c) 1995

Kevin,

We are very proud of what you have done with the ability God has so graciously given you. We know you will continue to excel in all you do. Your future success is assured, if you always "strive for excellence." While the miles may separate us, our love for you will always be in our hearts.

Alice Nuckolls

Alice, you've had our hearts from the begining. As you've grown to become a kind, beautiful, temperate young lady you fully have our respect and friendship. You've honored your parents and our Lord through obedience, purity, and academic discipline. With regards to us, your "big brothers," you've treated us with love and respect even when at times we might not have deserved it. As you prepare to go off to college, consider II Timothy 2:15,16: "Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. But shun profane and vain babblings: for they will increase unto more ungodliness."

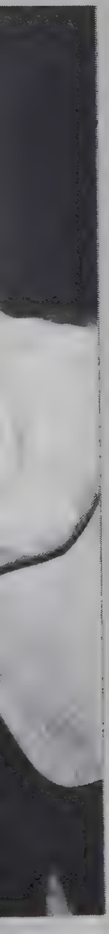
During the Homecoming play "Snow Knight," Ginger Nocera gazes lovingly at her football hero and "Prince Charming," Steven Park. "Snow Knight" was written and performed by Ms. Beland's Advanced Theatre class.

Can you say "VICTORY?!" In a stunning performance, the Lady Knights overcame two previous losses to their arch rival, West Henderson. The Lady Knights as well as other students and faculty members were overjoyed with the win, which placed them one step farther in the state play-offs. These ladies will tell you that no matter what anyone says, victory is bliss.

In Advanced Biology Class, Jennifer Hensley tends to her healthy green plants. Students in Mrs. Sherri Hill's Advanced Biology Class grew various plants from seedlings so that they could later dissect them. North was lucky enough to have a greenhouse located outside of Mrs. Sherri Hill and Mr. Weast's rooms.

With a grin of success, Laura McCrain accepts her trophy from athletic director Coach Cumbo. The girls cross country team achieved a goal when they became the Apple Country Conference champions. For their hard work, all the girls on the team were rewarded with a trophy like this one.



Coming Into
THE LIGHT

Finally: a light at the end of the tunnel! Spring Break, rising temperatures, the end of the spring sports season, the junior-senior prom, and growing senioritis could only mean one thing for students and teachers: SUMMERTIME!

Along with this new season came the end of an old school year. There were yearbooks to be distributed, final exams to be passed, caps and gowns to be fitted, and good-byes to be said before the beginning of summer. For some, these good-byes would be said for the very last time.

As the sunset falls on this school year, students and staff alike will beat down their own paths into the future - whether they may lead to summer jobs, camps, workshops, family vacations, or perhaps the beginning of a new life. No one could tell what the summer, and the future, would hold.

- Katie Bones

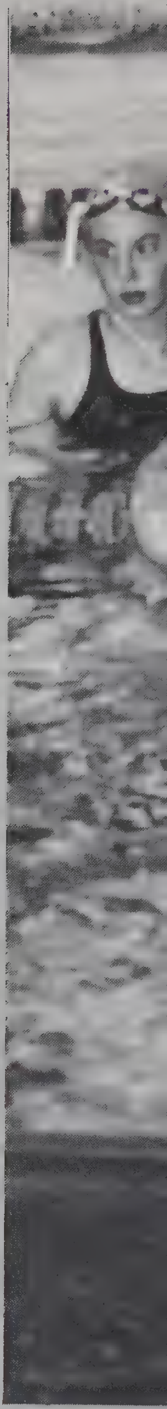
Coming Into
THE LIGHT

It had been a year like none other -- one in which we as students, staff, and members of the community came together in the advent of sports, academics, school and community events. Only as one could all of our accomplishments in these areas be made.

As Ralph Ellison said in The Invisible Man, "So you see . . . you are involved in my life quite intimately . . . whatever you become, you are my fate."

Students and staff will leave at the end of this school year to shape their own destinies and form their own fates. But by coming together as one student body, one staff, and overall one school, they unknowingly became intertwined - they have become one fate.

- Katie Bones



At an afternoon practice at the YMCA, swim team members listen intently to Coach Burch's instructions as to what they will be doing next. Practices at "the Y" were often crowded, as the pool had to be shared with athletes from Hendersonville High School.

A semester of all work and no play . . . Kim Mathis works diligently on her classwork during math class. With the 4x4 schedule, teachers had to teach a year-long course in a semester, and therefore had to move a lot faster. Especially in academic classes, there wasn't much time for "play," but students still managed to fit in a little fun here and there.

During December, Ms. Lancaster, Joy Cox, Tammy Livingston, and Ginger Nocera discuss which books to buy for the family they adopted for Christmas. During the holiday season, FHA not only adopted a family through the Salvation Army, bu also hosted a "drop for the faculty

OUCH! Freshman Mike Branks struggles to remain in control as his opponent makes a decisive move - poking him in the eyes.

Hey Pat,
It's been a fun year.
Especially in Mr. Burch's class! Have a great summer!
See ya next year.

THE EXCALIBUR 1996

COLOPHON

The 1996 EXCALUBUR was published by the 1996 EXCALIBUR staff of North Henderson High School and printed by Herff Jones Yearbooks at the Montgomery, Alabama printing facility. Press run was 575 copies. The cover is a lithograph designed by the Herff Jones Creative Art Services with assistance from the 1996 Excalibur staff. Endsheets are a white Colortext stock with pearlescent aspen blue and black ink applied for the design. Paper stock throughout the book is an 80 lb. Bordeaux Special, a gloss enamel. Body copy and captions were printed in Times New Roman font. Headline faces and point sizes varied from section to section. The staff used PageMaker version 5.0 and the Herff Jones Typemaster program to typeset the copy.
